SASSY BASS RESTAURANT

Sassy Bass is a unique restaurant near the end of Fort Morgan Road. They have an eclectic menu. we ordered chicken tenders and burgers for the kids. Everything was good from the ambiance, the service and the food. Sassy Bass is a great little restaurant in an area that doesn't have many. In the same rustic line of stores there is a grocery and a liquor store, and another store open in the summer.

HISTORIC FORT MORGAN & FORT GAINES

Forts Morgan and Fort Gaines, located on opposite sides of the Mobile Channel at the entrance to Mobile Bay, were built in the early years of Alabama's statehood by the federal government to protect the coastline. During the Civil War, however, neither installation halted Union naval and land forces, failing to protect Mobile Bay from Union admiral David Farragut and his fleet. This is where the phrase, "Damn the Torpedos, full speed ahead" was made famous by Admiral Farragut.
